In addition to electricity and snow clearing, up to the caravan there were no further commitments, since the campsite neither a frost-proof toilet facility nor Washing and shower facility had!

It was agreed that everything else, such as water, toilet and food, would be discussed, paid for and used with the tenant of the Geieralm Florian Gleinser and his wife.

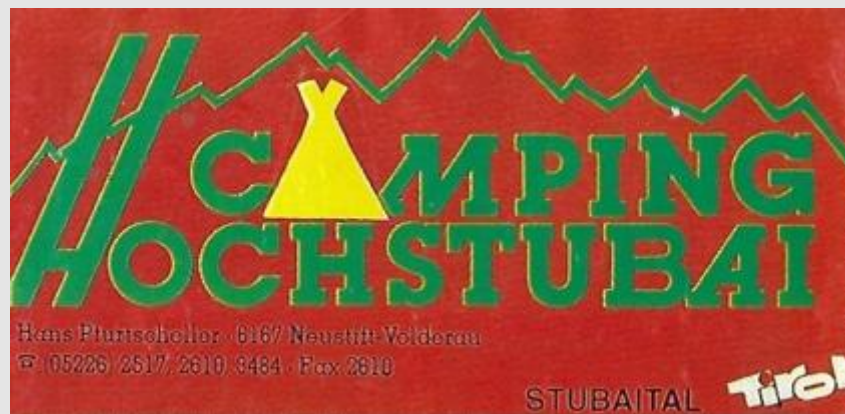

Florian was also immediately agreed and it was agreed that if this family was present, it could also be used!

In this way, the glacier lift, which was opened for the first time, and the glacier could be used regularly!

A year later, in 1975, this one family had already become three and Hans Pfurtscheller had already winterized the two washrooms and the toilets over the summer and provided them with frost guards, so that now they could also use their own sanitary facilities.

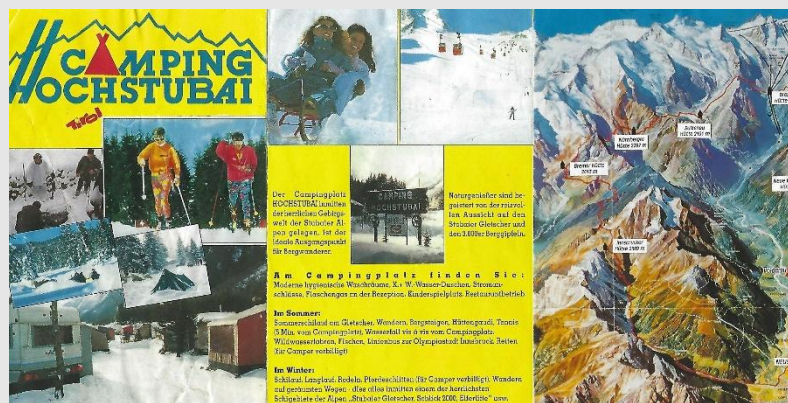

From now on, the trend towards winter camping was unstoppable and the expansion of the campsite took place quickly and increased more and more every year.

Until about 1980, the campsite was also called "Camping Hochstubai"
